

Historical Overview

In January of 1973, North Clackamas Christian School (NCCS) was still a dream in the hearts of a few parents. They felt God directing them to establish a school where they could send their children; a school where teachers would reinforce the Christ-centered training provided in the home and the church. They also wanted a school with a strong academic program.

Planning meetings began in February, 1973. Many other parents shared the same goals, although some doubted that they could accomplish the dream of truly launching a Christian school. They chose to step out in faith and made plans to open in September, 1973, with grades K-12.

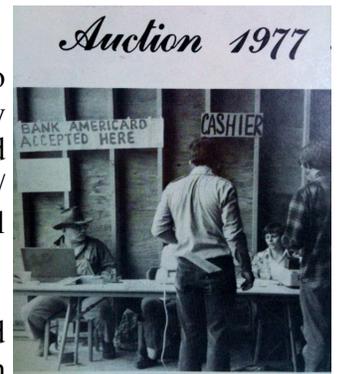

NCCS became a non-denominational school where its staff members were to base all teaching on God's Word, The Bible. It was to be a school staffed by dedicated Christians who would set forth the discipline needed for a sound educational program. It was to be a school in which the students, parent/guardians, faculty, and staff would all invest their time, skills, and financial contributions.

In June, 1973, land was purchased on top of a hill in Oregon City and ground was broken. Volunteer workers soon completed a six-room building which housed 93 students and six teachers that first year. Although it was a difficult beginning, with much learning and adjusting, the teachers and students of that first year remember it fondly.

In 1995 the school board determined that NCCS needed to become accredited and began the accreditation process through the Association of Christian Schools International (ACSI). In 1997 NCCS also began the accreditation process of the Northwest Accreditation Commission.

The NWAC is the secular accrediting body for schools in the Northwest region of the United States and its accreditation is recognized by schools, colleges, and universities throughout the nation. During the course of pursuing accreditation ACSI and NWAC entered into a third-party accreditation agreement (basically a reciprocity agreement). Therefore, NCCS became accredited by both ACSI and NWAC. Accreditation allows the NCCS high school diploma to be recognized by colleges and universities as being equal to a high school diploma from any other accredited high school. NCCS was established to provide a biblically based education to assist parents in fulfilling their God-given responsibility to bring up their children in the discipline and instruction of the Lord.

Therefore, we endeavor to guide our students into conformity with God’s Word. Each academic discipline and every activity of school life should bring honor and glory to God. Our desire is to direct the student toward a position of true knowledge, righteousness, and holiness in Christ by developing and relating the whole person to God academically, mentally, physically, socially, and spiritually. By teaching the essential doctrines of the Christian faith, we move toward the concept of 1Timothy 1:5, “The goal of our instruction is love from a pure heart and a good conscience and a sincere faith” (NASB). Preparing the student for college is an overarching goal.

Sports and Fine Arts programs at NCCS give students the opportunity to experience additional learning outside the classroom. Fall, winter and spring sports give students ample opportunities to participate in athletics and learn valuable lessons in discipline, respect and teamwork.

NCCS is a part of the 1A Valley 10 league in the OSAA association.

Art is taught throughout the elementary grades and is offered as an elective in the high school program. Our students have had the opportunity to display their art at a local Starbucks, Burgerville and at the OHSU Veteran’s Hospital! Our music program includes choral opportunities from preschool through high school as well as band from 5th grade up through high school. Our music program has had many opportunities to bless our community with it’s dynamic program. NCCS also has a student lead worship team for our 7th-12th chapel. Our drama club allows students the opportunity to express their theatrical talents in our annual spring play. Each of these programs, along with our Veteran’s day chapel, Grandparent’s day, Family Fun nights, book fairs and community service projects, gives NCCS the opportunity to invite the community to experience some of it’s unique character and quality of students.

Since its beginning, NCCS has continued to strive for excellence. Our school mission statement clearly articulates that goal; “North Clackamas Christian School partners with Christian parents in providing our students with a biblically based education that pursues excellence in spiritual, academic, artistic, and athletic programs, training them to serve Christ daily.” Over the years, NCCS has sustained the mission of our founding fathers who physically framed the buildings and the concept of academic excellence embedded in biblical truth.

As we move forward in the 21st century, the focus continues to be on providing a quality education which prepares students for the plans God has for them. Our graduates are well prepared to meet the demands of collegiate study, the mission field and/or going directly in to a business arena of their choosing. Our core philosophy of establishing academic rigor while providing support through our strong network of relationships with parents, church and community is imbedded in our shaping the hearts and minds of our students in the righteousness of Christ. NCCS continues to be a beacon on the hill for Christ within Clackamas community.
